

- Our Coalition

- Nuclear Energy

- News & Events

- Join Us

CASEnergy Coalition

Nuclear Energy is America's Clean and Safe Energy Solution

Home > Front Page > CASEnergy Co-chair Governor Christine...

CASEnergy Co-chair Governor Christine Todd Whitman Featured on WashingtonPost.com's On Leadership Series

washingtonpost.com » Opinions

On Leadership

On Leadership: Fighting a radioactive reputation

On Leadership: Christine Todd Whitman, former EPA administrator, on 'giving the facts' about nuclear power to environmentalists and what it means to be a moderate Republican. (Video by Ian Saleh, Elizabeth Tenety and Andrea Useem)

Large Video
Email
Permalink
Embed link
Comments

CASEnergy Co-chair and former Governor of New Jersey Christine Todd Whitman taped an interview for the WashingtonPost.com's On Leadership video series, an online forum that engages thought-leaders from a vast array of policy areas and backgrounds. Other recently featured high-profile individuals include New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani, Environmental Defense Fund head Fred Krupp, Sun Microsystems co-founder Vinod Khosla, Historian Doris Kearns Goodwin, Ford CEO Alan Mulally, and Captain 'Sully' Sullenberger.

In her interview, Gov. Whitman spoke about her role as a leader in the energy field, highlighted the history of her involvement with the CASEnergy Coalition, some of the leadership challenges faced around environmental issues, and the growing support for nuclear in both Washington and among Americans across the country. To view the interview, visit the WashingtonPost.com's On Leadership website.

Front Page, News on May 21, 2010

- Join Us
- Contact
- Privacy Policy
- Copyright © 2009, CASEnergy Coalition.