Cold, storms to continue near Idaho/ Utah state line

- STATESMAN STAFF
Edition Date: 10/13/08

Comments (0) |

Both lanes of travel on Interstate 84 between the I-84/I-86 junction and the Idaho/Utah state line reopened Sunday afternoon, according to Idaho State Police.

However, the National Weather Service reported that a winter-like storm will continue in the Great Basin region, including parts of Utah, through Monday morning.

Drivers can expect delays until residual traffic goes through the area, ISP said. Interstate 84 was closed about 8 p.m. Saturday because of a storm.

In the Treasure Valley, residents can expect to wake up Monday to patchy fog before 10 a.m. Columbus Day will be sunny with highs in the mid-50s.
